

Toilet Training Policy

Your child's development is key in preparing for the toilet training process. When the parent or teacher feels that a child is ready, a brief meeting will be set up to coordinate a schedule and routine between home and school. In order for toilet training to be successful, both the parent and teacher must follow through with the plan outlined. Our goal is to assist you and your child with this process.

Consistency is of most importance for our child during this learning experience. The language used during training should be the same in the home and school. We also need to keep your child on the same daily schedule. Please try your best to follow through at home, as we will do here.

As your child's toilet training experience is in progress, the teacher will keep you informed of the level of success. If you begin using pull-ups at home, you will need to supply them at school. Attached is a form to fill out with your child's teacher. Congratulations and good luck! 😊
